Declaration of Nullity of Marriage

EDITHA A. COROTAN,
Respondent.

SUMMONS

TO: EDITHA A. COROTAN
Brgy. Sta. Catalina,
2436 Binalonan, Pangasinan
Whereas, on October 5, 2023 an amended Petition was filed before this court, the contents of which is quoted to wit:

AMENDED PETITION

Petitioner, by counsel, unto this Honorable Court, most respectfully states that:

PARTIES

- Petitioner Merwin C. Corotan ("Petitioner") is of legal age, married, and a Filipino citizen. He is a resident of Sitio 3, Brgy. 47, Bengang, Laoag City, Ilocos Norte as evidenced by the hereto attached Sworn Certification of Residency, with House Sketch Location, issued by the Barangay and the Government issued ID and house location sketch marked as Annexes "A" and "B" of the original petition respectively. Further, the undersigned counsel personally verified the authenticity of Petitioner's proof of barangay residency and sufficiently explained to Petitioner the rationale for the residency requirement for purposes of venue and the consequences of non-compliance therewith as evidenced by the hereto attached Affidavit marked as Annex "C". He may be served with summons and court notices through the undersigned counsel.
- Respondent Editha A. Corotan ("Respondent") is of legal age, married, Filipino citizen and a resident of Brgy. Sta. Catalina, Binalonan, Pangasinan, where she may be served with summons and court notices.
- This is a petition for Declaration of Absolute Nullity of Marriage between the parties on the ground of psychological incapacity under Article 36 of the Family Code, to wit:

A marriage contracted by any party who, at the time of the celebration, was psychologically incapacitated to comply with the essential marital obligations of marriage, shall likewise be void even if such incapacity becomes manifest only after its solemnization.

- The parties met in 2002 when they were introduced to each other by the Petitioner's aunt who happened to be respondent's fellow Overseas Filipino Worker in Hongkong. During that time, they would find time talking and eventually exchanged sweet messages via phone or love letters.
- In December of the same year, respondent came home to have her vacation here in the Philippines. Eager to see her personally, petitioner fetched respondent at the airport and both of them went straight to the respondent's residence at Binalonan, Pangasinan.

- During their stay at respondent's residence, they would become intimate and have sexual intercourse. After few days of staying in Binalonan, respondent's parents asked the petitioner to go home in Laoag to fetch his parents. Petitioner went home and invited his parents in Binalonan.
- When the petitioner, together with his parents, arrived in Binalonan, respondent's father immediately demanded him to marry the respondent. Petitioner was surprised with the instant proposal; he was left with no choice as the parents of the respondent demanded that they should settle down since they are already living together.
- Left with no choice, the parties tied the knots on January 18, 2003, which is less than two (2) months after they met each other personally. A copy of their Certificate of Marriage is hereto attached as Annex "D" of the original petition.
- After their marriage, the parties stayed in Binalonan with the insistence of the respondent. She stayed for good as they planned to have a small business and to start a family. Petitioner, being new to the place, had difficulty looking for a job, aggravated by the uneasy environment of living with in-laws.
- The animosity between the petitioner and his in-laws became evident during the early life of their marriage. The parties plan of managing a small business did not work out as planned as respondent would only listen to her older brother - Wilfredo Agbanlog. This would then lead to verbal fights between the parties. Petitioner felt like he was in a prison. He had difficulty in initiating projects as his power to decide at the respondent's residence is limited as he is uncomfortable living with his in-laws.
- Petitioner tried to talk to the respondent if she is amenable to leave her family and both of them would just live in Ilocos Norte. Respondent did not entertain this idea and insisted that they stay in Binalonan, where her family is residing. She insisted that she cannot bear the idea of living away from her family and siblings. Hence, they stayed in Pangasinan.
- Due to petitioner's failure to look for a job and provide their daily needs, respondent would often nag and complain about how difficult her life is after their marriage. She would mention how she misses her old life as a single lady, hanging out with friends and her happy moments in Hongkong.
- Almost every night, petitioner would overhear his wife and his family saying things against him. How indolent, useless, and moody he is. During such times, petitioner expected his wife to defend him, but rather, she expresses her dismay and regrets in marrying him.
- Having a wife who complains every day, the petitioner looked for new friends in Binalonan. Eventually turned to be habitual drunkard as his new found friends were also drunkard. To avoid the uncomfortable and toxic living environment, petitioner, would always go out with his new peers and would end up in a drinking spree session all day long or until the wee hours at night as this is the only way he can feel free. As a result, petitioner would go home severely intoxicated.
- This unhealthy relationship continued for a couple of months. The belittling and demeaning behavior shown by the respondent and her family usually end up to verbal and physical fights. There were moments when respondent would slap the petitioner in front of her family and made him feel how useless he is. Petitioner cannot do and say anything since he is living with his in-laws.
- After some time, respondent went back to Hongkong as their savings was exhausted already. Respondent directed the petitioner to stay in Pangasinan, which the latter agreed, with the hope that his wife will reform from being a nagger and controlling wife.
- In 2004, respondent went home again and decided to stay in the Philippines for good. The couple were again in constant conflict while living together. As always, she was domineering, hot tempered, extremely jealous, controlling and demanding while petitioner was indolent and passive in making their lives different.
- The peak of their toxic relationship happened in April 2007. They had a major fight. Distasteful words were uttered and physical fights ensued. Petitioner then went outside and had a drinking spree with his friends. He went home very drunk to the extent that he was not able to enter their house. He fell unconscious while opening the backdoor. Petitioner woke up and realized that he slept outside their house.
- When petitioner woke up, he was greeted by hard slap on the face from the respondent, coupled with nasty words. Petitioner, as well got furious and throw everything that he could reach including their electric fan, wooden chairs and other furniture. Respondent shouted out of shock and frustration then she kicked and slapped the petitioner, again. Respondent demanded petitioner to leave as she believes that he is causing disagreement in their family and their married life is failing.
- The day after, petitioner tried to talk to the respondent, however, the latter, as her usual reaction, immediately slap him and ridiculed him. At that time, he grabbed the respondent's arms, pushed her on the wall and asked for separation. Respondent retaliated by immediately boxing the petitioner and grabbed a 2x2 lumber and attempted to beat the latter. Petitioner was able to run away from the respondent. On the same day, petitioner took all his clothes went home to Laoag and never came back.

21. Petitioner and respondent are living their separate lives for more than fifteen (15) years now.

22. The property of the parties as husband and wife is governed by Absolute Community of Property regime as they did not enter into any marriage settlement before contracting marriage. However, the parties were not able to bear a child and did not obtain any properties during their marriage.

23. The totality of the circumstances of the case manifestly shows the blatant failure of the petitioner and respondent to comply with their marital obligations.

24. In the case of Tan-Andal vs. Andal¹, the court pronounced that psychological incapacity is not a medical but a legal concept. It refers to a personal condition that prevents a spouse to comply with fundamental marital obligations only in relation to a specific partner that may exist at the time of the marriage but may be revealed through behavior subsequent to the ceremonies.

25. Psychological incapacity required by Article 36² must be characterized by (a) gravity, (b) juridical antecedence, and (c) incurability. The incapacity must be grave or serious such that the party would be incapable of carrying out the ordinary duties required in marriage. It must be rooted in the history of the party antedating the marriage, although the overt manifestations may emerge only after the marriage. It must be incurable or, even if it were otherwise, the cure would be beyond the means of the party involved.³

26. The Psychological Report of Hannah Lyn P. Bautista, MSPsy., RPsy, RPh., is enlightening. In her Psychological Assessment Report, after conducting series of exams and interview from petitioner, his sisters and the respondent's brother, she concluded that Petitioner is suffering from Antisocial Personality Disorder while the respondent is suffering from Narcissistic Personality Disorder. Attached as Annex "E" of the original petition is the copy of the Psychological Assessment Report and Annex "F" of the original petition is the copy of Curriculum Vitae of Ms. Hannah Lyn P. Bautista.

27. As elaborated in the Report, respondent shows a pervasive pattern of grandiosity, need for admiration, and lack of empathy. These patterns are prevalent in her actions. She appreciates being in the limelight. When the Petitioner was not able to give the love and affection she wanted, she felt less important leading her to push the petitioner away.

¹G.R. No. 196359, May 11, 2021

²Family Code of the Philippines

³Ligerale vs Republic of the Philippines, G.R. No. 168796, April 15, 2010.

28. She maltreats the petitioner every time he gets intoxicated. She stigates fight; she kicked and slapped the petitioner several times. Just the same, respondent would always assault petitioner by giving him labels such as 'inutil', 'bobo' and 'batugan' considering that he cannot find a work to provide for their family. She cannot accept the fact that her life is difficult compared to her life when she is still single and living in Hongkong.

29. Petitioner, on the hand, showed pattern indicative of antisocial personality disorder. He inclined to be down-hearted and show extreme despondency. He considers himself to be inadequate; may be listless, remote, and pre-occupied. A pessimist. He lacks insight into feelings and causes of his own behavior and would avoid unpleasant topics. He is relatively unresponsive emotionally. He believes that certain people are hostile and are trying to make his life difficult and unpleasant.

30. He focuses in gratifying his own needs while neglecting the needs of others. Based on the test administered, he manifested hostility, aggression, and poor self-esteem. He never apologized for his shortcomings nor realized that he failed to do his part to make their marriage work.

31. These actions are manifested by his inability to look for a permanent job to provide for his family. His inability to get along with his in-laws. His engagement in a habitual consumption of alcohol products until wee hours in the morning just to avoid staying at respondent's house. And, the numerous verbal and physical fights that make their relationship toxic and unbearable.

32. The root cause by the respondent's behaviors can be explained by her experienced attachment problem as a young child. Being the youngest child, she felt very important being the star in the family. Even outside her circle, she expected others to treat her extra special. Her unresolved childhood conflict led her in developing narcissistic personality disorder. When the petitioner wooed her and made her feel extra special even in a short period of time, she believed in the illusion of love.

33. Sadly, for petitioner, the root cause his actions are imbedded while he was still a child. Petitioner grew up in an overly pampering and excessively nurturing family, and lax parenting and discipline, made the petitioner adventurous, carefree of his manners, and irresponsible. Growing up as a child in an environment where there is lack of criticism or punishment reinforced the development of his personality disorder. He was accustomed that life is easy, and it has not to be complicated. As a result, he did not learn to value sacrifice, persistence, hard work and delay of gratification. In addition, he learned to disobey and disregard rules, brought by tolerated misbehaviors. He believes that he is confident enough that he can always make it on his own because of his strong support system; his close family ties which in return appeared toxic and encourages dependency.

34. The personality disorders of the petitioner and the respondent served as the main reason why they failed in complying with the essential marital obligations of providing mutual love, respect, affection, help, support, etc. The said personality disorders of the petitioner and the respondent are deeply embedded in their long held personality traits. Despite being explicitly manifested during their marriage; their personality disorders were developed way before they got into their marital union. The personality disorders of the petitioner and the respondent are considered to be permanent in their personality structures. Hence, their personality disorders are now grave and incurable. The couple's state is seen to be grave and incurable as they fail to recognize their condition as well as in seeking psychological intervention.

35. The following are the witnesses, to wit: 1) the petitioner himself to prove the material allegations in the petition⁴; 2) Ms. Hannah Lyn P. Bautista, an expert witness who will testify that petitioner has Antisocial Personality Disorder and that respondent has Narcissistic Personality Disorder⁵; and 3) Melanie Corotan-Alonzo, sister of the petitioner who will corroborate the testimony of the petitioner⁶.

36. The following are the documentary evidence to support the petition, to wit:

- Sworn Certification of Residency with house location sketch;
- Government Identification Card of the petitioner issued by the Land Transportation Office;
- Affidavit of the undersigned counsel;
- Certificate of Marriage issued by the Philippine Statistics Authority;
- Psychological Report conducted by a licensed Psychologist;
- Curriculum Vitae of Hannah Lyn P. Bautista; and

⁴Please see Psychological Assessment

⁵Judicial Affidavit of Merwin C. Corotan is hereby marked as Annex "G" of the original petition.

⁶Judicial Affidavit of Hannah Lyn P. Bautista is hereby marked as Annex "H" of the original petition.

⁷Judicial Affidavit of Melanie Corotan-Alonzo is hereby marked as Annex "I" of the original petition.

⁸Other document or object evidence that will be in the possession of the petitioner during the course of the hearing.

⁹The petition was not filed to harass, cause unnecessary delay or needlessly increase the cost of litigation.

¹⁰The factual allegations therein have evidentiary support or, if specifically identified, will likewise have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for discovery.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, it is most respectfully prayed to Honorable Court that after due notice and proceedings, render judgment as follows:

- Declaring that at the time of the celebration of the marriage of the Petitioner MERWIN C. COROTAN, and the Respondent EDITHA AGBANLOG-COROTAN, BOTH of them were psychologically incapacitated to comply with their respective obligations essential to the marriage;
- Decreeing that by reason of the psychological incapacity of both parties, the marriage contracted by them on January 18, 2003, as well as its civil effects, if any, is VOID AB INITIO, pursuant to Article 36 of the Family Code of the Philippines, as amended;

- Ordering the Philippine Statistics Authority and the Civil registry of Binalonan, Pangasinan to cancel from their respective Book of Marriages the entry covering the marriage between the parties, and to record the judgment declaring the absolute nullity of the marriage between said parties. Such other reliefs and remedies which are deemed just and equitable under the premises are likewise prayed for. Respectfully submitted.
